

Online radicalisation

Online radicalisation has increased over recent years, with many individuals in the UK going to fight for extremist groups outside of the UK. However, radicalisation is not just about going abroad to fight for an extreme view or belief. It is just as common in the UK with extreme groups such as animal rights activists.

Activity.

Part one - Research the government statistics for radicalisation and the support available. Watch the video and record your understanding below.

Part two – Research the following extremist groups:

- Animal rights activists
- Far-right groups
- Far-left groups
- Anti-abortion groups

Part three – Research two other extremist groups and record your learning from the tasks you have completed.

 Make some notes on your findings and prepare to discuss with your key contact